HAPPY MARRIED WOMEN. The Caliph of Bagdad Makes Trouble for His sirand Vizier.

One morning the talented and efficient caliph of Bagdad awoke in a humor almost as bad as that of a man who is trying to write with a stylographic pen, says Texas Siftings. He telephoned immediately for Abdullah, his grand vizier, who came running with his tongue hanging out.

"Last night," said the caliph, "I had a dream to the effect that all the married women in Bagdad threw them selves on their knees before me and bewailed their condition. You are responsible for the welfare of my subjects, and I want this thing stopped and by the beard of the prophet if you don't put a stop to it I'll put a period to your existence." "Humbug!" replied Abdullah. "There is not one married woman in Bagdad who would swap places with any un-married woman. They are all chronic kickers, but, nevertheless, there are some who are happy." "Well, you find one and bring her here before the first of next month or off goes your head under the civil-service-reform rules." Abdullah supposed that in unearthing a happy married woman he had the softest job in town, whereas it was harder than tracing a lost umbrella. The first call he made was on the caliph's own wife. He supposed that she could not help being happy, but he was surprised when he found that she was the most miserable of her sex: that for abject wretchedness she captured the entire bakery and some of the adjoining buildings. She had discovered in her husband's pistol pocket a letter addressed to him and signed: "Your loving wootsy-tootsy, Fatima.

dulla's failures to find a happy married woman in Bagdad. He finally said to his own wife, where he thought be had a sure thing: "Emily, I suppose you are a happy woman, are you not?"

"I might be happy if I only had a few decent clothes to wear. This is the third fall I've worn the same bonnet. Verily. Abdullah, you are no good," replied his loving wife.

Abdullah, perceiving that a great sorrow was gnawing at her heart. caused the conversation to drift into other channels. As the first of the month was rapidly approaching, Abdullah began to listen to hear his own head drop into the basket with a nauseating reverber-"I'll let you off this time," said the caliph, "because while you were off in the country I have discovered a happy married woman myself in Bagdad." "Impossible! I've asked them all. Who is this happy woman?" asked Ab-

"Your own wife. She told me that she was always happy when you were out of town.

THE SHOPPING WOMAN.

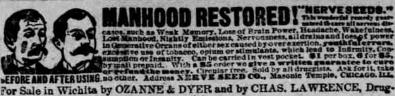

Difficulties of a Man Who Comes Acress Her Path.

When a woman goes shopping, with a parasol in one hand and the other firmly clutching her purse and a bargain-counter advertisement cut from the morning's paper it is useless for the man who encounters her to try and enforce the rule of the road, which teaches him to turn to the right. He may, remarks a writer in the New York Press, turn to the right if he wants to but if by turning to the right he threatens to pass between the woman and an attractive window in which goods are being estentatiously slaughtered for a terrific sacrifice he will have to shy to the left again. For she isn't going to be cheated out of a close view of that window for any man; and even if there is a rule of the road for the men it ought not to apply to wom-Gallantry ought to teach a man that. So the man, awearing internally, doores to his own left to avoid an Its contributors are among the most popular American writers.

Its illustrations are fine and numerous. It is a storehouse of choice literature awkward collision. In so doing he is lucky if he does not collide with a second woman who is trying to walk northward and look westward at the same time. Walking northward or rather thinking you are walking northward, while you are looking westward. usually has the effect of making you actually walk northwestward. So the second woman, by looking westward at No. 1's hat, bumps northwesterly right into the inoffensive man. Of course there is a glance at him which turns his blood into a tree of red ice within him. It is something of a trial to walk the ways of a shopping woman while she is walking them, but a man is sometimes ungallant enough to draw consolation from the fact that if the shopping woman tries him he is something of a trial to her in turn.

DON'T CARRY BOGUS COIN.

It Is Contrary to Law and May Entall "A man better have a live rattlesnake in his pocket than a counterfeit dollar carried as a pocket-piece," said Inspector Lawrence of the treasury department to a Minneapolis Journal man when talking about the carrying of coins or bills which one knows to be "A great many men do not know the danger they run in this thing," be said. "Suppose, for instance, that a man has a counterfeit dollar which he has had for years—one that he has picked up somewhere and carries as a pocket plece. He goes into a store one day. ouys some article or other, and gets a lot of silver coin in change. He goes from the store, say to a saloon, where he buys a drink, or to some drug store to get something or other-it matters not where he goes, provided there is one of those 'smart' young fellows behind the counter who is always ready to take somebody up on something or

"Paying for his purchase with one of the dollars the man behind the bar, or the counter, as the case may be, flings the dollar back with the remark that it is counterfeit. The purchaser, somewhat abashed and not liking the eving of the crowd around, begins to make excuses to the effect that he did not know it was counterfeit, and so on, and the clerk, who is auxious to make a record as a counterfeit detective, suddenly calls in the police and the man is arrested and searched. On his person is found the other counterfeit dollar, and the possession of the two dollars is prima facie evidence that he intended pass both of them, and that man hasn't got enough friends in the world to keep him out of the penitentiary. True, it looks hard, but that man had no business carrying around a counterfeit coin for a pocket-piece or any other reason. It is a plain violation of the law to carry counterfeit money about with you, something which many people do not realize. "Suppose I happen to know that a man, a cashier in one of the wellknown banks of Minneapolis or St. Paul for instance, has a bad twenty-dollar bill in his possession. Igo into that bank, call him by name, and ask him for that bill. He says he hasn't got it. 'But,' I rejoin, 'you did have such a bill yesterday in your possession, for I have the testimony of two reputable men that they saw you show it around to some parties. Now I want that bill; you have no business with it.' He de murs and makes various excuses and does not give me any satisfaction. What do you suppose I do? I go out and get a search warrant and go through every dollar of money in that bank, dollar by dollar or bill by bill, until I find that counterfeit twentydollar bill and then I confiscate it. There used to be no law against this sort of thing, but there is one now, and the public generally ought to know the facts in the case. And formerly it was not an offense to make the dies which are used in counterfeiting-anybody could make them and anybody could have them in their possession so long as they were not used, but that ### has all been changed now." CALIFORNIA FOR HEALTH.

I am often asked what part of southern California is best adepted to certain individual cases. This is, of course, largely a matter of personal and constitutional election. As a rule, however, I may say that rheumatic, neuhusband who would supply me with a ralgic and laryngeal cases do better in the interior, since the sea air loses much of its severity in traveling inland between a hot sun and a warm soil. Convalescing cases recovering from some long and tedious illness, and those suffering from nervous pros tration, insomnia, or the debilitated stages of advanced consumption, are more benefited by the bracing air of the coast-the great invariability here experienced and the greater amount of atmospheric moisture having the desired effect, says a writer in the Cali-It is the absence of enervating heat during the day or night that permits of so many restorations of shattered health which would elsewhere be impossible. For this reason invalids have been induced to adopt a Californian summer for a climatic change or for a residence, and our eastern friends can readily see that it is erroneous to con-

A voung globe-trotter, bearing an illustrious French name, was holding forth during a dinner in the Faubourg St. Germain at Paris about the loveliness of the island of Tahiti, and de scribing in glowing colors the marvelous beauty of the women of that French dependency. With the object of learn-ing whether the young traveler had restricted his observations to the fair sex, as one might have been tempted to believe from the tenor of his remarks, one of the Barons Rothschild who was present ventured to inquire if he had remarked anything else worthy of note in connection with the island. Resenting the baron's inquiry, he re plied: "Yes, what struck me much was that there were no Jews and no pigs to be seen there." "Is that so? claimed the baron, in no wise discon-"Then let you and me go there together; we shall make our fortune.'

A WORD IN KINDNESS. It Kept an Excited Horse from Running

"I don't know when I have seen a more striking illustration of the power of kindness," said a New Yorker the other day to a Sun man. "A man drove a grocery wagon up to the house opposite mine the other morning and started in to deliver some groceries. had expected the horse to stand, but the horse kept on moving. The man turned around and threw a potato at him, but the horse didn't mind that a bit-he kept right on walking. "'Whoa, there,' says the man, but the horse didn't whoa. "'Whoa, you!' says the man, but the horse didn't stop at all; in fact he moved just a little bit faster. But the most remarkable thing about him now was the change in his appearance. You couldn't have told exactly what it was. He was'nt any bigger than he had been nor any smaller. He just seemed to sort of radiate it, but there could be no possible doubt about what it meant. It meant that he was ready and determined, upon the slightest further provocation, to kick the wagon into double pointed toothpicks and make jam of "'Whoa, Bill!' said the man, in a friendly, kindly tone. Before you knew it the horse had settled into a peaceful attitude and the man had disappeared within the house."

SOME HISTORICAL LIES.

THE African king Prester John neves had an existence. THERE never was such a person as Pope Joan, the so-called female pope

Swiss confederation, and the story of Gessler has no historic basis. THERE is no historic authority for the statement that little George Washington cut down the cherry tree. WELLINGTON at Waterloo did not say: "Up. guards, and at 'em!" The words were put into his mouth by an imagine ative writer. CHARLEMAGNE's paladine had no existence, and the history of Charlemagne himself is so clouded by myth as to be utterly unreliable. THE mother of Coriolanus did not intercede with her son to spare Kome. The story has no better foundation than that of Horatius. THERE is no reason to believe that Tarquin insulted Lucretia. His power which is the only basis for the story. THE story of King Arthur and his round table is a myth, although what purports to be the round-table is still to be seen in a south of England town. POCAHONTAS did not save the life of John Smith. It has been ascertained that this worthy man was the most able-bodied prevaricator of his cen-

Call and see us. d 125 tf THE animal which most nearly rerembles a plant is proba bicorius, an insect found in India, which bears an extraordinary likeness to the flower of an orchid.

THE pain caused by the bite of a mosquito is caused by a fluid poison injected by the insect into the wound in order to make the blood thin enough, to flow through the mosquito's throat. EVERY nation on the globe has had its "stone age" at some period of its history. Even as late as the time of cision was performed with a stone knife. A LONDONER has secured from Madagascar an egg of the extinct Apyornis or roe of the "Arabian Nights." It is 85% by 28 inches, and would hold the contents of more than
